Course Description: This course was designed for people interested in a career as a community youth probation officer in British Columbia. Participants will learn about the role, duties and functions of a community youth probation officer, and how community youth probation officers fit into the multi-disciplinary approach of the Ministry of Children and Family Development. Participants will also learn about ethical practice and standards of conduct for public service employees in BC, from a community youth probation officer's perspective.

Course Goal(s):

- Explain the powers and duties of community youth probation officers in BC
- Describe the relationship between the provincial Youth Justice Act and the federal Youth Criminal Justice Act
- Identify the mission and goals of Youth Justice Services in BC, and how these are achieved in the multi-disciplinary approach of the Ministry of Children and Family Development
- Identify and attitudes, values and beliefs conducive to ethical practice
- Describe the standards of conduct for public service employees
